

CARE OF THE BABY DURING SUMMER

THE SEVENTH OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES ON THE CARE OF BABIES
DURING HOT WEATHER PREPARED FOR THE CALLER BY THE CHILDREN'S BUREAU, UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

There is no doubt that the problems which arise in taking care of a baby in summer are more difficult for the city mother than for the one who lives in country or in the country.

Country houses, lack of fresh air and sunlight, and of open spaces, are not good aids of their kind to make very comfortable abode which to try to avoid.

During the summer months in most of the larger cities there is an enormous increase in the number of sick babies, many of whom fail to survive such period. These well-known facts hold true in the accomplishment all over the country of scenes are known as infant deaths or milk stations. These stations are rooms in charge of trained nurses, now educators, in which any mother can bring her baby for advice and attention.

The mother who is expecting the birth of a baby should go to the station about once a month during her pregnancy for advice about herself. The doctor and nurse will tell her what food it is best for her to eat, how to care of the breasts and nipples, and help her to prepare for the baby's coming in the best way.

If she is suffering from any ailment, such as indigestion, varicose veins, headache or swollen feet, she may learn what to do for these troubles, and such desire to go to a hospital for the birth of her baby will probably be able to arrange the matter for her.

After the baby is born and the mother is up again she may, if she chooses, go to the station nurse who will come to see her now and then, until the mother is able to take the baby to the station again.

Mother who are ill or worn out with the burdens of home, may find in a visit with the baby to such a station unexpected help in their present trouble. Much effort is made to teach mothers the rudiments of domestic science in the home when time is needed.

caused by the city and sometimes by private society. The mother can find out the location of the station nearest her home from the physician or by inquiry of the health officer.

The baby is weighed at each visit and examined to see if he needs any special care. If so, the doctor explains this to the mother. The baby should be brought back to the station at regular intervals in order that the doctor and nurse can watch him. In this way much of the time from which babies suffer can be prevented and mothers and babies spared a great deal of suffering.

Motors, especially who are not to work by the day, should try to send the baby to the station to a caretaker, for such babies need the welfare station's help even more than others.

If some members of the family is sick other than the baby, and the baby is registered at the station, the nurses and doctors there will usually be able to advise her where and how to seek assistance.

These infant welfare stations are intended for the use of all mothers in the neighborhood who need the care of their babies and no one needing it should fail to avail himself of this opportunity.

DRIVES DANDRUFF AWAY.
The next thing you do for your hair is to keep it free from dandruff. It is now positively known that most cases of baldness can be traced directly to the formation of dandruff and to neglect of the scalp.

The powerful yet harmless antiseptic properties of

make it supreme in this respect. Its effect can be noticed after the first or three applications, and, if care is taken to avoid re-infection of the scalp and unclean comb or brush, the occasional use of this tonic will keep the scalp in the prime of healthy condition.

Penslar Hair Tonic makes a delicious hair dressing, too. It contains no sediment, is not sticky or greasy, and does not color the hair. Try a fifty-cent bottle to convince yourself how good it is, and you will buy the dollar size next time.
